PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (UP)—In a few weeks baseball's deepest thinkers will go into a slight reverie and begin the business of selecting a player for the honor of being named the most valuable of any in the league.

In fact, some of the game's more profound minds—meaning those experts who, without thumbing a single notebook, can tell you everything that has happened in baseball since Hoss Radbourne cut his milk teeth—already have listed the eligibles.

Among the men being prominently mentioned are Gabby Hartnett, the portly catcher of the Chicago Cubs; Ducky Wucky Medwick, erudite outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals; Charley Gehring, the be-flanneled robot of Detroit; and Carl Hubbell, the man who made Bill Terry rich and famous.

These are all deserving citizens. Hartnett, within whose ample bosom the fires of competition rage with forest fire violence, has done much to keep the crippled Cubs in the race. Without Medwick's bat the Cardinals would be the cotton states league; Hubbell's 19 victories are the reason the Giants are pennant bound, and Gehring—well, he's been the best all-round player in either league for a number of years.

No one would holler much if any one of these fellows was tapped, and awarded the manicure set, book-ends, blooded mare, or whatever it is the most valuable player is given.

Yet, my choice is not in that group. Not one of them. Here is my list of eligibles. Take a look at it and see if you think I'm on the right track.

Elton Hogsett, St. Louis Browns; Gene Schott, Cincinnati; Hugh Mulcahy, Phillies; Guy Bush, Bees; Ed Smith, Athletics; Oral Hildebrande, Browns, and Pat Malone, Yankees.

At first, this may seem a strange group, but an analysis makes it appear very logical.

Take Ed Smith, who comes close to being my first choice. Ed, according to the latest figures, has pitched in 17 games this season, winning three and losing fourteen. He hasn't been very valuable to the Athletics, but no one can deny that he has been very, very valuable to the other seven clubs in the league. And—this is my point—a man who is valuable to seven clubs is more deserving of a reward than a player who has been valuable to just one.

Hogsett, with 6 games won and 17 lost, is pretty valuable, too, as is Schott with two won and 10 lost; Mulcahy with 6 and 15; Bush with 7 and 15, and Hildebrande with 8 won and 17 lost.

Malone is going to be mighty hard to pass by. The statistical chart I have before me shows that "Old Blubber," as he wasn't christened, has been to bat 32 times this season and batted exactly one—yes, one—hit. Unless my arithmetic is much more faulty than it once was, that gives Patrick the blazing average of .031. Now think how valuable he has been to all the pitchers in the league. When he came to the plate they could relax all over. Any one who could give Joe Di Maggio the call over Pat, when value was concerned, would be lacking in logic. Di Maggio has been a help to the Yankees, and the Yankees alone. Pat has been a God-send to Detroit, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Washington.

KYBURZ MAN IS STRICKEN

Professor At Davis Passes After Illness Covering Period Of Three Years

Samuel Beckett, 46, who had been a member of the faculty of the Branch College of Agriculture at Davis since the school was established in 1909, died on Friday at his summer home a short distance above Kyburz resort.

Mr. Beckett had been on leave from the school for the past three years in an effort to rebuild his health, and during that time had spent the summers, from early spring until late fall, at his summer home.

Throughout his illness he bore the trial with cheerful fortitude and a kindly appreciation of everything that was done for him in an effort to rebuild his health and to make him comfortable.

To the summer home owners of the Kyburz vicinity, it was a common sight to see Mr. Beckett almost daily basking in the sun on the porch of his summer home and he was quick to acknowledge the greetings of passing friends when able.

The funeral services will be at Davis on Monday morning. Services will be private. Interment will be at Davis cemetery.

Mr. Beckett was graduated from the University of California in 1909 and taught at Davis from that year until 1931. He was a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, of the Elks, and of several fraternities.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his mother and two sisters.

SACRAMENTO DEDICATES NEW HIGH SCHOOL ON SUNDAY

District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, Grand Third Vice-President of the N. S. G. W., will head a delegation which will attend from Placerville and vicinity.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Sacramento Firemen's band and the McClatchy high school glee club. Speakers will include Seth Millington of Gridley, past Grand President of the Native Sons; Judge Peter J. Shields and the Sacramento School Superintendent, C. C. Hughes.

Deer And Geese Confuse "Weather Prophets"

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Nobody predicts coming weather in Texas, where even the best signs fail.

Pet deer near Clarendon, Texas, are putting on a new winter coat, 30 days ahead of time. Texans started to prepare for an early winter.

Then Tom McDougal, Bonham, Tex., newspaperman, noticed a flock of geese flying south. McDougal recalled the old Indian weather prophets.

"We'll have a late autumn, he informed his readers."

BRITAIN LEADS 4 POWERS IN BUILDING SHIPS FOR MERCHANT FLEET

LONDON (UP)—Great Britain is building more mercantile tonnage than the aggregate now under construction in Germany, Japan, the United States and Holland—the four leading countries abroad.

This fact is revealed in Lloyd's Register of shipping returns.

The present total of 1,199,973 tons is an increase of 185,519 over that of the preceding quarter. It exceeds by over 40 per cent the figure recorded a year ago, and is the highest quarterly total since June, 1930.

Of the world's total of 2,882,860 tons now in hand, British yards are building 41.6 per cent. The leading countries abroad are: Germany, 416,881 tons; Japan, 318,277 tons; United States, 198,654 tons; Holland, 188,464 tons; Sweden, 138,720 tons.

Messrs Frank and Clifford Henshaw of Fair Oaks, were Coloma visitors on Sunday.

GIRL IN RED—Margaret Drennan, 20, secretarial student of Iselin, N. J., who, police say, confessed that she shot and killed her lover, Paul Reeves, 28, father of two children. Miss Drennan became known as the "Girl in Red" when police traced and identified her by the color of her coat. According to the confession, she took her father's gun only to make Reeves help her, but he tried to take it from her and she shot him.

BIKES BARRED ON SIDEWALKS

Action Effective In Business District As Residents Complain Of Recklessness

City police have been instructed to bar bicycles from the sidewalks in the business district, from Cedar Ravine west to lower Main street, following a series of complaints by pedestrians against the apparent recklessness of bicycle riders.

The rule is effective when bicycles are being ridden.

City Marshall James Morton said Saturday morning that complaints against the riding of bicycles on sidewalks have been increasing in number within the past few days and several pedestrians have narrowly escaped being knocked down by the young cyclists.

City officials, inclined to be sympathetic toward the children, pointed out that under the state vehicle act, a bicycle is a vehicle the same as an automobile, and while the order barring them from the sidewalks will be effective for the present only in the business district, the regulation may be extended to include other sections of the city if such action is warranted.

FIRE DANGER DECREASES

Rising Humidity, Cooler Temperature Forecast As Heat Wave Breaks

Decreasing danger of forest fires and a break in the current heat wave is seen in the weather forecast as received Saturday morning at Eldorado Forest headquarters from the weather bureau at San Francisco.

For the fourth consecutive day the mercury reached 100 in Placerville.

The weather forecast for the weekend is for cooler temperatures and rising humidity with moderate to fresh southwesterly winds.

J. G. Leonardi, who is acting as weather observer during the absence of Adolph Martin, who is on vacation from his duties, reports that the mercury reached 100 degrees on Saturday shortly before noon.

This was the fourth consecutive day that the mercury had reached 100 and the sixth consecutive day on which the mercury reached a maximum of 99 degrees.

On the night of September 14, the minimum was 49 while the high for September 15 was 100 degrees. The mercury dropped to 57 degrees that night and climbed to 102 degrees on September 16. That night the minimum was 55 degrees and the maximum September 17 was 104 followed by a low of 54 degrees Friday night. Saturday's reading shortly before noon was 100 degrees.

Suit Claims Balance Owed For Lumber

George H. Bradbury is the plaintiff in an action filed Friday in Superior Court by Attorney C. W. Pearson against A. J. Rupley and G. E. Tuman, claiming $640 as due.

Papers state the plaintiff formerly was in partnership with Tuman in the lumbering business and that upon the dissolution of their partnership there was owing the company from the defendant Rupley $1,280, which, by agreement, was to be paid in two equal parts, one to each of the parties to the partnership.

Mr. Bradbury subsequently sold his interest in the lumbering business to Mr. Rupley and he alleges he has not received the $640 alleged owing as his share of the account mentioned.

Up and Down Broadway

By JACK GAVER
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—There are $175,000 of oil-begotten Rockefeller gains in "Virginia," a musical romance which gets the theatrical season of 1937-38 off to what may not quite be a flying start but which has its auspicious moments despite a book that creaks like a tailor's sign in a high zephyr.

The production is beautiful to look at and the music of Arthur Schwartz falls kindly on the ear, so what if the lines and story are rather a bore. Perhaps this is for the best, because something as good as "Show Boat" or "Music in the Air" for the very first offering of the season would spoil us all into a clabber of criticism boding ill for subsequent pieces which did not measure up to the pace setter.

"Virginia" is to be seen at the Center Theater in Radio City—that large and beautiful house which specializes in giant-scale musicals whose appeal usually is based on music and spectacle rather than on sound, witty librettos. For what it is, the new contender is about on a par with its predecessors at this theater—"The Great Waltz" and "White Horse Inn"—and should snag a lot of theater-goers who are not too exacting in their demands for so-called sophisticated fare. The show marks the advent of the Rockefellers as producers on their own, although they have put money in other productions at the Center.

The story of "Virginia" deals with intrigue leading up to the entrance of that colony into the American War for Independence. The locale is Williamsburg, seat of the royal governor, which has been restored to its pre-Revolutionary splendor in recent years by the Rockefeller millions. A troupe of actors arrives from London and the military authorities suspect that its manager carries a message from persons in London offering aid to George Washington. The plot consists of passing this message around among the cast for two acts to prevent the authorities from seizing it before it reaches Washington. The temper of the people explodes at the proper moment to prevent anyone from getting in Dutch over the message and the British are on the run as the curtain rings down on an elaborate tableau of marching rebels and Washington on a horse.

Of course, there is a love story mixed up in all this, a couple in fact. The daughter of the governor loves the colonel of the Virginia Rangers, who in turn falls in love with the leading lady of the theatrical company. All this is nicely portrayed in speech and song by Ronald Graham, a newcomer to operetta and a welcome one; Mona Barrie, the screen actress, and Anne Bothe, a London prima donna of pleasing appearance and voice who is making her American debut.

Laurence Stallings, who co-authored "What Price Glory?" of fond memory, and Owen Davis, the man of many plays, wrote the book. Lyrics to Schwartz' music are by Albert Stillman. The scores includes such memorable things as "Virginia," "An Old Flame Never Dies," "You and I Know," and "If You Were Someone Else." The best of the music, however, is in the spirituals for the excellent Negro chorus. Among these are "Goodbye, Jonah," a really delightful thing; "Send One Angel Down" and "I'll Be Sittin' in De Lap o' De Lord."

The ballet work, under direction of Florence Rogge, is a high spot of the show, as is a pantomime of "Jack and the Beanstalk" on a stage within a stage. The country fair scene which opens the second act is a delight.

The settings by Lee Simonson are an outstanding feature of the production, recreating Williamsburg buildings and streets in startling fashion.

PLENTY—Mrs. C. Frank Johnson went fishing near Galveston, Texas, and caught this six-foot tarpon, a foot longer than she.

LUMBER WORKER STRICKEN

Mr. Boyer became suddenly ill last Sunday and was removed to the hospital where he was found to be suffering from a serious stomach affliction.

2 FEATURES SATURDAY FOR EMPIRE THEATER PATRONS

Death stalks the diamond . . . as crime czars muscle in on America's "sultans of swat"! While the crowd roars . . . a beauty dies! Murdered by the most fieshish killers who ever defied detection by fifty thousand eyes!

Here's the inside story of the "soft-ball" sensation that's sweeping America, actionfully dramatized in Columbia's newest thriller, "Girls Can Play," which is the Saturday feature at the Empire Theater.

Buck Jones' latest Universal picture, "Smoke Tree Range," a lightning-fast story of the open range is the second feature.

Jones portrays the grandson of a cattle baron, torn between love of a girl and loyalty to his grandfather, whom he believes to be dispossessing the girl of rightfully owned property. How he works himself out of his dilemma, at the same time exposing a group of rustlers, makes a thrilling drama of the West. The highpoint of the picture is a terrific sandstorm.

SUPERIOR COURT MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF CONSTITUTION

Superior Judge Malcolm Glenn, sitting in the El Dorado County Superior Court on Friday, in the absence of Judge George H. Thompson, who is on vacation, directed that in adjourning, the court would adjourn at noon in commemoration of the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

Judge Glenn, in making the order, spoke briefly from the bench concerning the proven wisdom of the men who drafted the Constitution and concerning the example which the United States has set for the world in self-government under the Constitution.

Unfortunately there were few spectators in the court room and court attaches said afterward that had they known Judge Glenn was planning to observe the occasion, they would have urged the attendance of a representative audience for the occasion.

Traffic Officer Scores Police Whistle

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y. (UP)—When George Weslar, traffic patrolman, loses his lower front teeth, the city of Binghamton will have to buy him a whistle.

For the past eight years he has been known as "the cop who whistles like a whistle—without a whistle."

He turned in the old brass whistle furnished by the police department, explaining that he could do well enough with his tongue and teeth.

Motorists say they cannot distinguish his natural whistle from blasts which other traffic patrolmen make on their brass whistles.

Mrs. Ronald Giffen and son, Richard, were in town early Saturday from Shingle Springs.

CUTTING THE LIFE LINE

How to Keep Your Throat And Chin Looking Young

By JACQUELINE HUNT

SOME artists say that the loveliest line in a woman is the long, sweeping line of her chin and throat. It is—when it is firm and youthful. But, unfortunately, the muscles soon droop and thicken unless she gives this area constant attention.

MISS HUNT

feed it, spank it, exercise it and pamper it.

Do not wait until you are forty and there are definite signs of a double chin. Thirty is not too young for you to begin to give it special daily care.

First check your posture to see that your head is properly erect. Then, see if your lazy chin and throat muscles have started to invite fatty deposits. If you are generally overweight, you had better outline a course of general exercises and a sensible diet for yourself and get these well under way before you begin serious neck treatments.

In any case, the throat and neck need special lubricating creams and bracing tonics and astringents. And exercises are needed for reducing a double chin or building up a scrawny neck with sagging muscles.

Here are some simple neck exercises:

Stretch your chin forward, and then bend your head backward until you feel the muscles under the chin stretch. Hold that position a moment, then bring the head forward, lifting with the throat muscles. Repeat ten times.

Force the lower jaw ahead of the upper one as far as you can. Holding the jaws in this position, stretch the chin forward and up. Return to the starting position and repeat several times. Then, with the lower jaw still thrust forward, turn the head slowly to the right and left, and go through vigorous chewing motions.

Stand with your hands on your hips, spine straight, head tilted backward, and chin stretched up. Bend forward from the hips and, keeping the chin tilted up, turn the head to the right and to the left. You will feel the muscles of the neck, chest, shoulders and back at work in this exercise.

The routine steps of the neck treatment consist of cleansing followed by an astringent and a brisk massage. After applying the astringent, slap beneath the chin vigorously with the backs of your hands until it is warm and pink.

Pinch with the thumb and first finger, starting at the point of the chin and following the jawbone backward to the ear. Repeat several times. This helps prevent a sagging line.

When you have finished this stimulating routine, apply a lubricating cream, working it in with downward strokes from your jawline. Now place all of your fingers in the center of your throat and draw them firmly backward toward the heavy muscles at the sides of your neck. Then your exercises. After this, remove the excess cream, and sponge again with tonic or ice water.

place. Other information may be gleaned from the President, Mrs. Wm. Dunn or Mrs. Arthur Speegle, secretary.

Mrs. Katherine Eaton is visiting in Humboldt County for a week.

Mrs. Roy Marks and family visited the state fair last week as did others in the community. Irving Marks liked the fair so well he made a second visit by himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Backman were also down to visit the fair. Royal Backman celebrated by getting lost in the jam.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen and family went down to visit the fair.

Motorist Loses 5-Hour Sit-Down "Strike"

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UP)—Because he was in a hurry, James Gullett, of San Diego, refused to let state border inspectors check his automobile at Crescent City, California.

When border officials insisted it was necessary, he locked his car from the inside in a sit-down protest. After five hours, he decided he was still in a hurry and unlocked the car for the inspectors.

The inspection took two minutes.
